Benefits of Having a US Company

Reduce costs, streamline operations and gain a competitive advantage.

- To isolate the US transactions from the rest of their worldwide business, and thereby not subject the books and records of the parent company.
- Asset protection for the individual owners - the corporation is a separate entity from its individual shareholders, or owners, and therefore has its own liabilities, responsibilities and tax identification number.
- Additional credibility. Owning a USA legal entity can add instant legitimacy and authority. Consumers, vendors, and partners frequently prefer to do business with a company located in their jurisdiction.
- Name protection. When you incorporate, form an LLC this process registers your business name with that state's secretary of state. Once approved, the business name is yours and yours alone to use within that state. It prevents anyone else from using the name within the state.
- Limiting the liability of the owner / parent company - product liability lawsuits / various torts / general labor litigation and general liabilities.
- Simplified bookkeeping - consolidating all US transactions through a subsidiary helps to simplify the currency aspect of bookkeeping and accounting (stability in the accounting of income and expenses in dollars, instead of having to do currency conversions).
- Potentially, to qualify as a local company when bidding on certain contracts – this is particularly important for those companies seeking to bid on government contracts.
- Being able to pay US-prices for certain technologies that are elsewhere more expensive.
- Access to a larger pool of venture capitalists / potentially to qualify as a local company when seeking US venture capital.
- Potential qualification under various US Visa programs - allowing longer-term stays in the US than may otherwise be possible.
- Potentially, to qualify for access to SBA Small Business Loans - The SBA can guarantee up to 85% of loans for $150,000 or less and 75% of loans for more than $150,000. The agency says its average loan amount was $371,628 in 2015. The program's maximum loan amount is $5 million and SBA loan rates and terms typically are more manageable than those for other types of financing.¹

US Travel / Entry Benefits

By owning a US company you may be entitled to a short stay (B-1) or long stay (L-1, E-1 or E-2) business visa.

The business visitor (B-1) visa² regulations permit a person to establish a business in the United States and attend board meetings as a director.

As a business visitor, you can gain entry to the United States for up to six months on each entry using a B-1 visa (although the admission period could be shorter), and three months using the Visa Waiver Program. However, using this visa you could not manage or direct the operations of the business as a business visitor on a B-1 visa.

The L-1 visa³ is an intra-company transfer US visa. This visa allows a US company to transfer a key employee from one of its offices in another country into the United States. It also allows companies to open a US operation for the transfer of its executives, managers and specialized employees.

In this scenario you could incorporate a United States subsidiary or affiliate of your overseas company and transfer yourself to the United States as an intracompany transferee (L-1 visa status). The L-1 visa is good for an initial period of three years and is renewable for two more years if the person is a specialized knowledge person, or twice for two years if the person is a manager or an executive.

For persons being transferred to a start-up company, the visa is valid for an initial period of one year. In this case it is renewable for the full three-year initial period if the company can show after one year that it is operating and functional and requires the services of a manager, executive or specialized knowledge person.

E-1 visa⁴ is designed to facilitate entry and longer-term stays for individuals employed by companies engaged in substantial international trade between the US and the treaty investor country. The volume of trade must be sufficient to provide employment for a number of people in the United States and must constitute the majority of the trader's international trade.

E-2 visa⁵ is designed for those who have made a significant investment in a US business in which the investor has at least a 50% ownership. The investment must be sufficient to provide employment for a number of people in the United States, and must be in an active US business.

In most cases E-2 and E-1 employee visas can be obtained much more cheaply and more quickly than L-1 visas. To ascertain eligibility under the E-1 or E-2 visa program see the U.S. Department of State's Treaty Countries⁶.

US Bank Deposit Account

North American-based clients may prefer to do business with a US firm.

A US corporate bank account simplifies payments for USA, UK and EU customers.

Usually clients prefer to pay to a local bank account rather than by international wire transfer. If your company needs to compete in very competitive markets favorable payments terms often make the difference between a client placing an order or going somewhere else.

The incorporation package offered provides you with limited bank accounts in:

- The USA (USD payments only - accepts ACH type deposits only)
- The United Kingdom (GBP payments only - FPS and BACS deposits only)
- Germany (EURO payments only – SEPA Transfers accepted)

This gives you access to low-cost banking services with no monthly fees in multiple jurisdictions – and allows your customers to pay you directly from within those areas using bank-to-bank transfer services (common for most forms of business-to-business transactions).

Additionally – your USD account may be linked to a merchant / credit card processing provider and also allows for direct billing to customer credit cards (worldwide) – providing your clients with even more ways to pay.

What is a LLC?

For foreign companies/individuals, there are two main business entities: the C Corporation and the LLC (Limited Liability Company). While an LLC and a C Corporation are both business structures that offer liability protection to owners of a company, they differ in several important ways.

- The LLC is usually treated as a “pass-through” entity for taxes, meaning any profits pass through to the owners (reported on the individual level) – the LLC Does not pay Federal Income Taxes⁷.
- A C Corporation pays taxes on any profits (reported on the business level).

To become a C Corporation, the business must have management and a board of directors and must file any required documents yearly. Businesses are taxed twice in C corps, once for corporation revenue and then again when that income passes through to C Corporation members (i.e., shareholders). Delaware Corporations must name one officer and the board of directors on the Delaware Annual Report which is Public Record. Owners/Shareholders are not named.

A Limited Liability Company (LLC) offers limited liability protection that is often superior to the protection for corporations because it is harder to “pierce the veil” and attach personal property to that of an LLC. Delaware LLCs do not file annual reports of any kind and LLC's can raise capital by selling Membership Shares but LLC's do not issue Stock Certificates.

Other benefits of a LLC:

- According to Section 2301(b) and (d) of the State’s code, Delaware LLCs not doing business in Delaware are not required to obtain a business license, register with the Department of Revenue, or pay Delaware’s gross receipts tax.
- LLCs in Delaware do not file annual reports (LLCs pay a flat $300 annual tax, known as a ‘franchise tax’) and it’s due in June every year and can be paid online.
- Delaware LLCs don’t need to hold annual shareholders or board of directors meetings.
- LLCs require less paperwork and administrative formalities than corporations. Delaware LLCs are not required to have an operating agreement.
- Delaware LLCs safeguard your personal assets by building a shield between them and your business liabilities. If the business cannot pay a creditor, it is difficult for creditors to target your personal possessions.
- There are no minimum capital requirements for forming a Delaware LLC.
- Delaware’s “Charging Order” prevents creditors of your business partners from taking over the company. Rather, they can only get an economic interest in the LLC’s distributions to that member.
- A Delaware LLC is tax free on all earnings if there is no US sourced income⁸.
- The LLC business structure requires no corporate minutes or resolutions and is easier to operate.

This package provides for a sole-member LLC. Other options may be available upon consultation with one of our staff.

Benefits of Incorporating in Delaware

Delaware is one of the smallest states in the United States of America (USA). The population of Delaware sits at an approximated 954,900⁹.

As of December 1, 2016, more than 1,000,000 companies, both U.S.-based and offshore companies, have made the choice to incorporate in Delaware. Over 60% of the Fortune 500 firms and more than 50% of the companies traded on the New York Stock Exchange and NASDAQ are chartered as Delaware corporations. In the last seven years over 80% of new Initial Public Offerings (IPOs) have made Delaware their corporate home.

- You don't have to be a US resident or citizen to form a US corporation or LLC.
- A US Delaware corporation or LLC can be headquartered anywhere in the world (you don't have to have a US office).
- Your company records do not have to be kept in Delaware, or even in the US.
- Shareholders can act in writing instead of holding meetings.
- For LLC's - your name and address is not made public.
- Your Delaware company can hold real estate, tangible assets, or intellectual property.
- Different kinds of business can be transacted under one corporate roof.
- No Delaware income tax is charged to companies that do not do business in Delaware.
- Delaware has no sales or personal property tax.
- A Delaware LLC is tax free on all earnings if there is no US sourced income.
- Disputes are resolved in Delaware's Court of Chancery. Delaware has a separate court for the resolution of business disputes where here are no jury trials and the judges are highly experienced in business cases - handling business disputes in weeks, not years.
- Low annual tax fixed at $300.00 USD for L.L.C.'s – payable 1st June every year.
